

Chris Page Joins HighView Financial Group

It is with great pleasure that all of the partners and shareholders of HighView Financial Group welcome the addition of Chris Page to our team as Vice President & Director leading the development and management of our Institutional Asset Management business.

After more than thirty years working with institutional funds as an asset manager on various investment platforms, Chris has chosen to focus his energy and expertise in a new direction to broaden his involvement with Boards and Investment Committees of institutional clients such as pension funds, foundations & endowments in their search for proper strategic asset management and oversight.

His extensive background in working with institutional funds as an investment manager provides him with a unique perspective which will allow him to reengage his skills as a former Chief Investment Officer to increase his involvement with HighView's institutional clients. Fundamentally the lack of external advice and direction combined with limited investment skill has created unnecessary investment loss and potential Board liability for individuals responsible for most mid-sized pools, may they be pension, endowment or foundation. As licensed portfolio managers, sharing in the committee decision-making, we believe that engaging HighView will provide improved asset allocation decisions, better risk mitigation and enhanced returns.

We are thrilled to include Chris' long and rich history in the Institutional Investment Management industry to the HighView team. His addition will only serve to enhance the depth and breadth of our core competencies.

Please join us in welcoming Chris to our team and wishing him every success in the next stage of his already very successful career.
